Travirca retains supervisor post

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

A conservatively estimated crowd of some 1,000 persons waited Tuesday night at the Hancock County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis for results of the Democratic and Republican Primaries.

Winners face possible independent opponents in the general election in November.

Four supervisors were re-elected to serve another four years, in unofficial returns scheduled for certification today.

A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, president of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, gathered 785 votes to Clinton Sonny Ladner's 536 and Kerlon K. Lumpkin's 186.

Kellar was re-elected to his fifth term in district two.

James A. (Jimmy) Travirca, vice-president of the Board of Supervisors, took his third term win by defeating longtime Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner 1,100 to 628. Ladner has served Hancock County for 20 years as sheriff.

Bert Courreege received a slim majority of the votes in District One for supervisor in polling 880, with James A. (Jim) Ladner at 485; James D. (Bucky) Reynolds, 228; and Charles A. Russ, III, 112.

Courreege was thus nominated for his second term.

Sam J. Pernicaro defeated two opponents for his second successful nomination.

Pernicaro received 1,103; Hugo Dutch Haas, 445; and former supervisor H. (Bully) Zengarling, 408.

In the corner's race incumbent Carl J. Banderet received the most votes of any county candidate in his run for re-election.

Banderet received 4,528; with William R. Bibb, 947; Kire C. (Junior)

Mitchell 2,202; and Gene A. Murphy, 1,180.

State Senator Martin Smith is an apparent winner in both Hancock and Pearl River Counties in his bid for fourth term as State Senator.

In Hancock, Smith received 4,452; Harry D. Mitchell 2,202 and Louis (L.C.) Ladner 1,729.

In Pearl River County with 57 of 60 boxes reporting, Smith had 6,160; Mitchell 2,950 and Ladner 1,377.

Smith will apparently face Republican J.B. Wright in the November election.

Democratic nominee, J.P. Compretta, unopposed in the primary will face Republican Karl Goss in the general election.

Justice Court Judge Lloyd Anderson was elected to serve his second term in District Three, receiving 1,101. Clifton Saucier polled 437; Eugene Ladner, 225; and Louis Decell 190.

Incumbent Peter Noto, constable of District One, easily defeated Floyd Fricke 1,023 to 624.

Necaise challenges Rutherford, Sills faces Randolph

(Shorty) Necaise took William D. Garcia 944 to 544.

Willie E. Carbonette received a majority of two opponents in his bid for constable in District five.

Carbonette received 1,069; Ray J. Murphy, 416 and George E. Burleson, 207 votes.

The Election Commissioners will meet today to certify the winners of the Tuesday Democratic nominations.

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Seven Democratic nominations will be settled on August 28 in run-offs for local positions.

All races seem to be close, with attention focusing on the offices of sheriff, Chancery clerk, supervisor of District Three, County superintendent of education, and Justice Court judge in District Four.

Chief Deputy Ronnie Peterson led the ticket for sheriff receiving 3,476. He will face runnerup Joseph (Joe) Dobson who polled 1,992 votes. Dobson currently serves as Justice Court judge in District Four.

Others in the sheriff's race were Felley Necaise, 1,684; James C. Ladner, 1,207; and Emile Piazza, 628. The winner of the battle between Peterson and Dobson will face at least one opponent in the general election. McCormick Wheeler is a Republican nominee for sheriff.

J.D. (Big John) Rutherford led the field of four for Chancery clerk receiving 3,761 votes to second place school administrator Mike Necaise, 2,808.

Rutherford is seeking his third term and Necaise is a newcomer to Hancock politics, seeking his first elected office.

Former Supervisor Jerry Ladner received 1,361 votes and Lila Ladner Taylor, 929 in the clerk's race.

Superintendent of Education Terrell (Terry) Randolph held a slight lead over School Principal Billy D. Sills. Randolph received 1,448 unofficial votes and Sills 1,320. Four years ago Randolph and Sills faced each other in the run-off for the county superintendent's post.

John D. Panton received 624; James D. Hara, 564; and former superintendent K. G. McCarty polled 544.

District Three Supervisor Oscar Peterson faces the same run-off candidate as he did four years ago in Roger Dale Ladner. Peterson received 747 votes; Roger Ladner received 747 votes; Roger Ladner received 747 votes; Roger Ladner received 747 votes.

Gandy captures Hancock votes

By RICH ADAMS

Hancock County's Democratic voters overwhelmingly chose former Lieutenant Governor Evelyn Gandy as their candidate for governor in Tuesday's primary election.

According to unofficial results released by Circuit Court Clerk Henry Otis, Gandy captured 2,434 Hancock County votes, defeating the nearest gubernatorial contender in her party, William F. Winter, by a margin of 435 votes. John Arthur Eaves followed with 1,341 votes. Jim Herring came next with 1,071, Charles Deaton with 809, and Richard Barrett with 278 votes.

County Republican voters gave gubernatorial candidate Gil Carmichael a landslide victory in the party's primary.

Bay Council learns

Toxic chlorine exposed in water system structures

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Dr. Michael Smith, president of Advanced Developments, Inc. (ADI), has the Bay St. Louis Council wondering what happened to three concrete block buildings which were supposed to have been constructed near the three city wells to house supplies.

Dr. Smith's firm is doing a study of the water system and also preparing plans and specifications for the Leonhard Street well to be tied into the city water system.

ADI is also making preparations for a control system for the entire water system's pressure to eliminate "over pressure of the system" which Dr. Smith says is causing a considerable number of water leaks.

The 1978 Small Cities Project as well as the 1979 Small Cities Project are being held up because the State Board of Health will not approve extensions on the Bay water system until the Leonhard Street well is tied into the system.

Dr. Smith says the State Board of Health paid half of construction costs on the now existent buildings which were to have been built out of concrete blocks with steel doors to seal off

County registration increases 40 percent

By RICH ADAMS

Figures derived from the Hancock County Circuit Court and Chancery Court clerk offices reveal overall voting registration in the county has increased by 4,407 voters since 1975, a 40 percent jump during that four-year period.

Deputy Chancery Court Clerk James Brantley reported that 115,407 voters are registered today compared to 111,139 in 1975.

Overall population in Hancock County is estimated to be 21,000 people. The precinct with the largest increase in registration was the Bayou Blanche precinct which had a 50 percent increase in registration. A second precinct, the Bayou de l'Est, had a 40 percent increase in registration. The Bayou de l'Est precinct had a 40 percent increase in registration. The Bayou de l'Est precinct had a 40 percent increase in registration.

Other precincts, however, had a decrease in registration. The Bayou de l'Est precinct had a 40 percent increase in registration. The Bayou de l'Est precinct had a 40 percent increase in registration.

The Bayou de l'Est precinct had a 40 percent increase in registration. The Bayou de l'Est precinct had a 40 percent increase in registration.

percent more registered voters.

District Two registration increased by 81 between 1975 and 1979, going from 2,186 to 2,267 for a 37 percent increase.

Bayou de l'Est and Leetown precincts registered 35 percent increases, while Bayou de l'Est registered a 30 percent rise, and Bayou de l'Est registered a 30 percent rise.

Bits 'n pieces

There seems to have been a rash of stolen cars in our area over the past several weeks. Some have been recovered, and others are still missing.

In several instances, we have been told, the keys were left in the missing cars. Leaving the keys in our cars is really an invitation to someone to take them and drive off.

We realize that persons wanting to steal a vehicle can do so if the doors are locked and keys are not available. So we do not have to encourage someone to steal a car by making it easier for them.

The Sea Coast Echo is a well traveled newspaper and a report we received from one of our cousins backs this up.

In a conversation the past weekend, our cousin told us that he was in the middle of Sauda Arabia and visited a reading room, and displayed on a rack was a copy of The Sea Coast Echo.

We would like to suggest to those of you not having a locked gas cap on your car or truck to try and get one. Since the cost of gas has risen over a dollar, more and more people are finding out that some one has borrowed some from their tank, especially at night.

It doesn't take too many gallons of gas to cover the cost of a lock type cap for your gas tank. We do understand that business has been brisk for the locked caps at local parts houses and dealerships.

We are glad to hear about the Community Memorial Service being planned on August 17 at Christ Episcopal Church.

We will be giving more information on the joint services in later issues.

We would like to take this opportunity to express a thank you to the citizens of Hancock for taking the time to vote in the Primary elections Tuesday.

We hope most of your favorite candidates won or will be in the second primary on August 28.

We who live within the City limits of Bay St. Louis and Waveland think we are the only ones with garbage problems. We have had several calls about situations existing within the County which we plan on taking a look at (with photos) in weeks to come.

We know about several we haven't touched on in Bay St. Louis and Waveland, but we will be looking at them.

With specified areas chosen for dumping garbage and trash, we cannot understand how persons can continue to litter our county with their filth from one end to the other.

'BOAT PEOPLE'

The world was horror-struck when some Indochina countries announced they would not only repel refugees but also would take those already within their borders and put them out to sea again.

The government of Malaysia, for example, made that decision which affected some 70,000 refugees. Malaysia wasn't alone in rejecting additional refugees. Thailand and Indonesia have said that they too will refuse to accept any more "boat people."

Japan, the Philippines, Singapore and Macao have excluded refugees for some time.

Meanwhile, the United States, which has been accepting 7,000 Asian refugees a month, hears President Carter call for increasing the quota to 15,000 a month, doubling the present rate. Vessels of the Seventh Fleet are dispatched to pick up refugees and take them to processing centers in Southeast Asia.

The situation is not a pleasant one. An estimated 60,000 people are being rescued each month from the sea because of the poverty and living conditions forced upon them by the communist government of that country.

Americans, who have been in the humanitarian business for years, have carried more than 10 million refugees from the sea with them. And now, the United States is being asked to accept more than 10 million refugees a month.

SALTY SALLY

per year, may have devastating effects on both the national economy and our own poor people. Problems would arise in welfare, food stamps and social security, for which these boat people would soon become eligible.

We used to think of America as a great melting pot in which cultural differences blended. But that was in the pioneer days when there was a lot of room, now, in many parts of the country, the ability to absorb 14,000 more people each month simply does not exist.

The American unemployment rate is expected to reach as high as eight percent next year, with millions of U.S. citizens out of work. We face a complicated energy picture, with uncertainty the only thing in lavish supply.

A hastily adopted U.S. policy of generosity toward the "boat people" can in the long run lead to a national disaster, when we learn all the facts. Congress should step into this issue and stop the additional flood of Asian refugees into our country.

PRIMARY ELECTION INTEREST—Approximately 1,000 persons gathered in and around the Hancock County Courthouse Tuesday night to hear early election results. Apparently interest, not apathy, is the word which best describes the feelings of county electors, with unofficial returns showing a 90 percent turnout in the county and 80 percent in the cities. ## Storing gasoline may be hazardous to health

CONSUMERS WARNED AGAINST STORING GASOLINE

Following recent reports of gasoline fires and explosions as well as a dramatic increase in the number of consumer poisonings from gasoline, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission is urging consumers to observe strict safety precautions, especially during the current fuel shortages.

Motorists and consumers concerned about the scarcity of fuel for their cars, boats and power equipment have been storing and transferring gasoline with disregard for safety and with tragic consequences.

Gasoline siphoning, for example, was responsible for the great majority of the more than 600 gasoline poisoning cases in June - or about six times the rate in June, 1978.

"In trying to store gasoline for future convenience, many consumers have been playing with fire," said CPSC Chairman Susan B. King, "and they continue to gamble with their most precious possessions: their lives and the lives of their families and neighbors."

In 1978, more than 9,000 persons received hospital treatment for burns suffered in gasoline explosions and fires; gasoline containers (including various containers not intended by manufacturers for gas storage) were involved in an estimated 17 percent of these injuries.

Approximately 90 percent of the victims were males, and nearly one-fifth of them were under the age of 15 years.

1979 figures indicate that gasoline containers have been involved in 11 percent of the gasoline burn injuries during the first half of the year. The increasingly common practice of home gasoline storage increases the likelihood that gasoline burn injuries will exceed the levels of 1978 this week.

California was among the first consumers to face fuel shortages this year. In the recent California fire, seven members of a family were badly burned when gasoline stored in a plastic container in a bedroom closet ignited.

Four Angeles residents were killed early in May when the pilot light from a kitchen stove ignited gasoline vapors seeping from three gas cans stored in the kitchen.

And in a third accident, a California man suffered facial and hand burns when a gas can tipped over in his garage, igniting the spilled gasoline.

King pointed out that many consumers are not aware of the highly dangerous characteristics of gasoline.

"Continually low gas prices (the temptation to store gasoline) will vaporize and can be ignited by a single spark," she said.

Gasoline poisoning predominantly affects children. In the past, children have been found with gasoline in their stomachs after playing with a gasoline can.

Gasoline is a highly flammable liquid. It is also a highly volatile liquid, meaning it evaporates very easily. Gasoline vapors are highly flammable and can be ignited by a single spark.

Gasoline is also a highly toxic liquid. It can cause death from chemical pneumonia.

Gasoline is also a highly corrosive liquid. It can cause severe burns to the skin and eyes.

can cause death from chemical pneumonia.

This increase in private storage of gasoline is persisting despite the fact that there is no completely safe way for consumers to store or hoard gasoline.

News reports from New York City to Milwaukee to San Francisco indicate vastly higher sales of gas storage containers in recent weeks; one San Jose hardware store reported sales of 100 cans per hour while supplies lasted, and a surplus store in Milwaukee reported similar purchase levels.

CPSC estimates that prior to current fuel shortages there were as many as 45 million individual American households which had one or more gasoline storage containers; there were an estimated 50 million or more gas containers in consumers' hands.

An estimated 8 million of these were used for fueling inboard and outboard motors, and the remainder were used for lawn mowers, power equipment and automobiles.

Prior to recent fuel shortages, normal annual sales of gasoline storage cans were about 10 million. Current sales are expected to raise these figures even higher.

Gasoline stored even in the so-called "safety cans" can be hazardous if consumers place the cans in unventilated locations. Heat in a storage area can cause excessive pressure and release of vapors which may then travel to an ignition source.

Vaporization of less than one-half pint of gasoline is enough to fill an entire home garage with explosive vapors, according to an official of the National Fire Protection Association.

And only a small amount of stored gasoline - even a few ounces - is enough to start a fire or explosion.

Gas vapors can be ignited by a wide variety of unexpected sources, such as household appliances, static electricity from clothing, pilot lights in stove and furnaces, cigarettes and other objects.

Although a significant number of accidents involving gas containers occur during the process of transferring gas (such as from a storage can into an automobile tank), the majority of accidents occur during the actual use of gasoline (such as in starting a campfire or priming a carburetor).

Other accidents have occurred as a result of storage in prohibited, unventilated spaces.

Consumers are urged to store gasoline in well-ventilated areas, away from living quarters and ignition sources (such as in a well-ventilated shed). Gasoline storage is especially ill-advised for apartment dwellers.

Never store gasoline in the house or automobile. Keep storage cans outdoors and far away from living quarters and ignition sources (such as in a well-ventilated shed). Gasoline storage is especially ill-advised for apartment dwellers.

Never store gasoline in any containers except those manufactured from sturdy steel sheeting which cannot easily be punctured.

Glass containers and plastic containers used for food and milk are especially hazardous, as are rusted metal cans. Since children so frequently are the victims of gasoline explosions and poisonings, all storage cans should be kept secured and tightly sealed.

Consumers should never refuel power equipment (chain saws, power mowers, etc.) when the engines are running or are still hot.

If gasoline is spilled on clothing, consumers should change clothes immediately and then wash the clothing. Even when spilled gas appears to have vaporized on the clothing, it may still contain enough gasoline to present a serious fire hazard.

or less) is illegal in many areas; and subsequent fire damage may not be covered by insurance policies.

Federal law makes it illegal for gasoline retailers to dispense gasoline into consumers storage vessels which do not have warning labels alerting consumers to flammability and storage hazards.

CPSC staff recently suggested to manufacturers that the labeling of gasoline containers include a specific warning against gasoline storage in automobile trunks, where the rise of ignition from a rear-end collision or electrical spark is acute.

While there are no current federal regulations covering the construction or storage of consumer gasoline containers, the Commission is considering a petition which asks CPSC to require that all gasoline storage cans be equipped with safety devices.

Available devices include a "flash back" valve, the so-called "pop-off" valve, which allows gas to escape from the can, and a spring-loaded cap which allows some pressure to escape from the gas container when expansion occurs due to higher temperatures.

There simply is no completely safe way for consumers to store gasoline; but if consumers must store gasoline in emergency situations, the Commission, strongly advises them to observe the following safety precautions:

Never store gasoline in the house or automobile. Keep storage cans outdoors and far away from living quarters and ignition sources (such as in a well-ventilated shed). Gasoline storage is especially ill-advised for apartment dwellers.

Never store gasoline in any containers except those manufactured from sturdy steel sheeting which cannot easily be punctured. Glass containers and plastic containers used for food and milk are especially hazardous, as are rusted metal cans.

Dear Sir:
Protect our Wildlife from the Government!

The federal government callously destroyed the natural environment of alligators, snakes, coons, possums, bobcats, etc., in Western Hancock County and installed the NASA-whiz kids and changed the landscape with canals without due process of law.

Other environmentalists have managed to protect the environment of least terns on the beach in Harrison County; therefore, we, the members of Protect Our Wildlife From the Federal Government, do earnestly call on the Congress to elect the federal bureaucrats from west Hancock County and to restore the balance of nature as it was before their unthinkable actions.

Add your voice to this honorable cause. Write your congressman and senators to take action on this urgent conservation matter.

By EDGAR PEREZ

The Sons of Lafitte, a Pass Christian patriotic group formed in 1978 in connection with the Nation's bi-centennial, is sponsoring Hurricane Camille 10th anniversary memorial services at 10 a.m. August 17 at the Pass City Hall and small craft harbor.

The City Hall phase of the ceremonies will include addresses by acting Pass Mayor, Alderman Marie Rogers, on the area's recovery from the devastation of Camille, and Pass Christian Chamber of Commerce Vice President and Superintendent of Education Leroy Litana who will discuss the future of the area.

District Three Supervisor Billy McDonald will cast a wreath into the waters of the harbor in honor of those persons who died in the 1969 storm.

The Sons of Lafitte will fire a cannon salute and taps will be sounded by a band, according to R. J. Calre, group spokesman.

Prayer for the dead will be offered by Rev. Dominick D'Amico, Episcopal Church, and the veterans of Pass Christian Auxiliary will serve refreshments at the City Hall reception following the ceremonies.

chlorine agents from the surrounding area and as a protection as well from vandalism.

"The Board of Health in Jackson has a set of the plans and specifications for the three buildings, and according to a board representative the proper materials were not used," Smith told the Council members.

The buildings were constructed about 1977, according to Dr. Smith, but weren't constructed according to specifications.

The reason for the concrete and steel door was for protection from chlorine which is "very dangerous," according to Smith.

Dr. Smith reports he has a set of plans and specifications ready for bidding but due to changes brought about by the inadequacy of the supply buildings, the advertisement for bids is being delayed.

"The buildings should cost about $100,000 each," Dr. Smith said, including removal of the inadequate and unsafe buildings." Dr. Smith allowed Council requested the engineer try to get a copy of the plans and specifications for the correct type of buildings necessary for the safety of the community.

Dr. Smith was also asked to give an estimate on costs of painting and repairs needed for the two water tanks. Mayor Larry Bennett reported there is a need of a new paint job on the tanks. Bay St. Louis Postmaster Hill appeared before the Council requesting numbering for several streets in the annexed area.

The Postmaster said that his office uses route numbers for many residents but permanent street numbers would be better.

Hill volunteered the services of himself and staff to aide in the project, if the City wanted help.

Gulf Regional Planning Commission was helping with some numbering on the highway the Council told Hill.

Council member Fred Wagner moved to request Gulf Regional recommend a method of numbering of the residences and work in cooperation with the post office. The motion carried.

Mrs. Joe Pilet approached Council about missing City records which were donated to the State Department of Archives by former Mayor Warren Carver and Commissioner Lucien Kead.

The 12 missing volumes of City minutes cover the period Jan. 4, 1850; May 2, 1893; August 6, 1916 - August 6, 1955.

Mrs. Pilet questioned the Council with why these particular volumes were being protected.

Council member James Trimble made a motion to take under advisement Mrs. Pilet's request.

Mayor Bennett said he discussed with what Trimble was saying. "I checked with the Department of Archives and they told me the board of directors had a meeting and they decided the burning of the minutes back to Bay St. Louis," the mayor said.

Mrs. Pilet suggested having the minutes protected in a fireproof safe.

correspondence with the Department of Archives and the Council members checked them over.

After further discussion they decided to look further into the matter.

Council requested Kelly McQueen, city clerk, obtain several proposals from firms for help with a study of the rates on utilities.

The Gulf Coast Community Action Agency's director sent a letter to the Council recommending the use of W. Beck, consulting firm in Boston, Mass. The letter was read by Mrs. Athella Piernas, director of Hancock County for Agency from Doyle Moffett, executive director.

The letter requested a meeting between the executive director and the Council which they set up tentatively. While on the subject of utilities, the City Clerk reminded the Council that United Gas, the city's supplier, had raised cost of raw gas to the city 41.17 percent and they had to raise the rates to the consumers.

Some members wanted to raise the same percentage as the increase to the City until Council member Fred Wagner mentioned that they may not necessarily have to raise the whole amount since it won't cost anymore to deliver the gas, etc.

Dr. Smith said he figured the cost of the raw gas was about 70 percent of the rates now being charged, when questions were asked of how much raw gas and delivery.

A 30 percent increase was agreed by the Council with them taking a look next month to see if it would be adequate.

Council realizes that a change will be made very soon in the system with new rate structures being studied and trying to find a consultant.

In other business the Fire Chief, Richard Fayard was authorized to give specifications for the purchase of a new fire truck, with the rusted-out one being used as a trade-in and also without trade.

The two price quotes for the repair of the body of the rusted-out vehicle were given at $16,000 and $17,000 by Mayor Bennett.

A request from the National Guard for $25 a month for operations fund was made by Lieutenant Jay Rutledge. The Armory receives help from the State, Hancock County and Waveland, but not Bay St. Louis, according to Rutledge.

The Council said they would look into putting the aide in the new budget coming up in October.

Council hired the firm of Moore and Powell, certified public accountants, to be city's auditors for the coming year.

A request from the Waveland Civic Association for $200 from Bay St. Louis for the annual Labor Day fireworks celebration passed.

Council president Pete Benvenuti voted against the action commencing. "I can't see taking taxpayers' money and putting it up in smoke, I was against it last year."

With the favor of interest in the election returns, Council adjourned at 10:00 p.m.

In Waveland

Aldermen disregard zoning recommendation

By LESLIE WILLIAMS
Waveland Board of Aldermen acted against a recommendation by that city's planning and zoning commission Wednesday night in authorizing sidewalks be constructed only on one side of the main streets in a Gulfside Assembly subdivision.

Waveland's planning and zoning commission had recommended sidewalk be constructed on both sides of the street.

"Sidewalk only on one side would look stupid and unbalanced in addition to decreasing the value of the lots without adjoining sidewalk," Aldermen Barbara Rappold reported.

The board approved the unnamed subdivision's preliminary plat, which also included a lot square foot variance that increased the size of lots in the subdivision.

In other business the board adopted an ordinance that now requires homeowners to apply for utility permits and construction permits simultaneously.

"This city ordinance should safeguard the consumer," Mayor John Longo stated.

Alderman Louis Smolensky said a homeowner in his ward purchased a home recently only to find out the structure lacked public utilities, such as water and sewerage.

"The new owner of the home complained the city, at its expense, should provide sewerage to the home, but the city cannot spend tax money to connect homeowners with public utilities," Smolensky said.

"The person was 'taken' by whoever sold him the house," Smolensky added. Aldermen agreed this ordinance should encourage the installation of public utilities in future home constructions.

The board approved another ordinance that requires the developer or homeowner pay the cost for extensions of pipe needed to connect the home with city sewer and water services.

In other matters, the board received a letter from Ms. Louis Sellers complaining a neighbor, who lives within 300 feet of her home, has horses and cows which roam in the area and are "making life unpleasant."

In her letter Mrs. Sellers asked if Waveland had an ordinance which bans livestock within city limits.

"According to a city ordinance dealing with livestock, a person living within 300 feet of the animals must first complain, then an official from the local health department must investigate the matter and determine if the animals are creating a health hazard," Mayor Longo explained.

"If the health official does not label the livestock a health hazard, the animals can stay," the mayor added.

School board denies student transfer appeal

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

A request from C.B. Murphy Elementary School student Michael Finley Hardee to be released from the Hancock County School District to attend the Bay-St. Louis Municipal Separate School District was denied Monday night.

Hancock County School District Board members Oris and Louie Lasher voted to allow the transfer, but members Monvel Cuevas and Woodrow Lashier voted against the release of the seventh grader, causing the request to fail.

Member Johnny Banks was absent. "I can't justify allowing the elementary student from Pearlinton to attend another school district when we have a school right in that area," Monvel Cuevas emphasized.

Cuevas said he might reconsider his vote if he was informed of "some special hardship or something that makes the release necessary."

Release of Murphy graduate Robert J. Petrie from the county district to allow him to attend the Bay district was unanimously approved by the Board.

Cuevas explained release of high school students is acceptable because of the specific hardships caused by overcrowding at Hancock North Central.

In other business, the school board accepted bids for timber, renovations at Gulfview Elementary School, petroleum products, school bus supplies and fencing for Charles B. Murphy Elementary School.

The high bid of $9,416 from Sam Whitfield Timber Inc. of Bay St. Louis for 858 cords of pulpwood removed from sixteenth section land northwest of the Kiln was accepted.

The low bid of $59,800 by McClendon Building Service contractors of Gulfport to perform renovations at Gulfview elementary school was approved. Renovations will include replacing tackboards and chalkboards, installation of new lighting and acoustic ceiling, installation of a new heating system, installation of an attic, restroom construction, installation of new ceiling tile, painting of interior and exterior of building, installation of floor tile where needed, installation of new doors and hardware, putting all windows in working order and other construction.

Chevron oil company's bid to provide gasoline and other petroleum products to the school district was approved.

Chevron offered regular gasoline at 61.9 cents per gallon. "This is the lowest bid for regular gasoline and we use regular gasoline the most," Cuevas said, explaining why the board had accepted Chevron's bid.

The bids accepted for school bus supplies went to Fireball Battery Co. of Gulfport, Beas Tire Co. of Gulfport, H. D. Clutch and Brake Inc. of Jackson, and Magnolia School Equipment Co. of Jackson.

The bid of $4,437 to install 870 feet of 9 gauge, 6-foot high fence at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlinton from Stenson Fence Inc. of Bay St. Louis was accepted also at the meeting Monday, teacher Natalie Lassere's request for a leave of absence for one year from Gulfview school was denied.

Supintendent Terrell Randolph stated, "State law does not allow the school board to grant leave of absences to teachers."

Board members noted, however, "If Ms. Lassere wishes to leave the school district she can submit her resignation to the board for consideration."

Randolph described the teacher as "...an asset to the school system."

Humane Society reports spay-neuter completion

By RICH ADAMS

Some 35 dogs and cats were sterilized as the result of an extensive spay-neuter program coordinated and funded by the Hancock County Humane Society, Board of Supervisors, and the Waveland Board of Aldermen, according to Mrs. Clifford Backlund, program chairman and former society president.

Mrs. Backlund told the supervisors Monday a total of 35 animals were sterilized between July 3 and 18 through a program in which the county paid 50 percent of the cost of the operation and the pet owner paid the other 50 percent.

On July 2 the supervisors voted to supply $500 to the spay-neuter program, and on July 3 the Waveland aldermen donated $200 to the program.

"I went to the St. Clair fair this year, and for the first time nobody told me stories about stray dogs," Mrs. Backlund told the supervisors.

"In the past I used to hear many pleas to take in a poor, stray dog," she added.

"Mrs. Backlund said the half-and-half spay-neuter program began taking patients on the morning of July 16, and about 100 dogs and cats are being sterilized."

"When we closed out the program, we received more calls. He have a waiting list now," Mrs. Backlund told the board Monday.

Mrs. Backlund also said Chancery

Court Clerk J.D. Rutherford suggested the society pay $20 per animal instead of half of the price.

Veterinarians who perform the operation charge from $35 for cats to $60 for large dogs, Mrs. Backlund said Tuesday.

Under the $20 per pet payment program suggested by Rutherford, the society would not only be able to serve more pets, but also bookkeeping would be easier, the program chairman said. Mrs. Backlund asked the board for consideration to continue the program in its next budget.

Also at the Monday morning board meeting, Hancock County Civil Defense Director Robert Boudin reported to the board that pillings have been placed around a 'hole' off the Waveland coast in which some 25 persons have reportedly drowned.

Boudin said the pillings were driven Monday and warning signs will be erected later this week.

Boudin said nine pillings were driven around the kidney-shaped trough near Gulfside Methodist Assembly in Waveland.

Board President A.A. (Dolph) Kellar said he saw people in the water beyond the pillings last weekend despite a large warning sign on the beach and smaller signs posted in the water.

"The people of the county appreciate all that you have done," Kellar told Boudin.

Pass group plans protest

A caravan of oxen, horses and wagons, antique autos, and private cars and trucks is planned from Waveland to Pascagoula on the weekend of September 22 and 23 to emphasize "a need for railroad passenger service from Waveland to Pascagoula."

The caravan is sponsored by the Sons of Lafitte, a Pass Christian patriotic organization formed to help celebrate the nation's Bicentennial in 1976.

Honorary parade marshalls will be announced for each city on the caravan route, according to Harry Reeks, Ocean Springs realtor, sculptor and civic leader who will serve as Wagonmaster for the caravan.

"We hope all of the frustrated public will join in this mass demonstration to show the L&N Railroad that we mean business," declared Reeks.

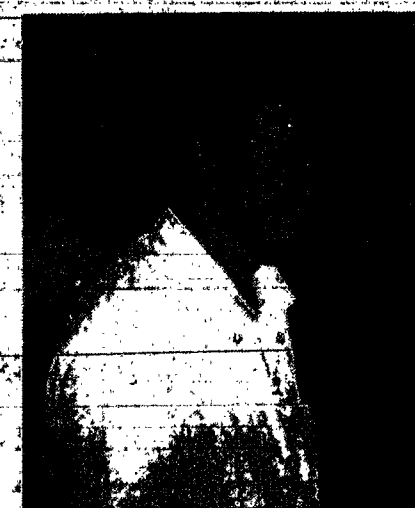

"Demonstrations by the men and women in the caravan will be held in each city on the route to stir the unhappiness of the 92,000 railroad passengers who are denied service for the Mississippi Gulf Coast."

Reeks said the caravan could bring attention to the need for a new rail line from Waveland to Pascagoula.

The caravan will leave Waveland on Friday, Sept. 22, and will travel through Ocean Springs, Gulfport, and Biloxi Beach, ending in Pascagoula on Saturday, Sept. 23.

Reeks said the caravan will be a "mass demonstration" to show the L&N Railroad that the people of the area mean business.

July sales tax revenues indicate cities' growth

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Increases in July sales tax revenues over the same month last year for the municipalities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland indicate continued growth in those areas.

"In July, 1979, Bay St. Louis received $40,179 in sales tax revenues from the State Tax Commission, an increase of 55 percent when compared to July 1978's total of $25,952," Bay St. Louis City Clerk Kelly McQueen reports.

The July amounts reflect May sales, McQueen explains.

The clerk says the construction of new businesses in that city, and the influx of tourists in May probably account for the increase in sales tax collections.

Waveland City Secretary Barbara Rappold, who is also an alderman, states, "Waveland received $19,565 from the state tax commission in July, 1979."

This is about an 11 percent increase compared to that city's July, 1978 total of $17,577.

Ms. Rappold also noted the July total depicts May sales.

"What happens," Rappold explains, "businesses are required to send their five percent May sales taxes to the Mississippi Tax Commission by June 20, the state takes its four percent and the other one percent is returned to that city government—I usually receive sales taxes from the state about July 18."

Rappold says she agrees with McQueen concerning the reasons for the increase in collections, adding the rising prices for goods to McQueen's list.

Bay Little Theatre to present 'King of Ice Cream Mountain'

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre's production of 'King of Ice Cream Mountain' a children's Fantasy, will be presented Friday at 7 p.m. and Saturday at 2 p.m. at the little theatre playhouse on Boardman Avenue. Under the direction of Don Griffon, the play revolves around King Bumpygruff, portrayed by Patrick Neely, and his magical, mythical kingdom of Frozenburg, where giant dragons and delicious ice cream make up everyday life.

Within this land of penguins and ice cream is an evil wizard, Zeno (Ricky Rotundo), who wants to obtain control of Frozenburg and take all of the ice cream away from the children of the world.

The only two people who may be able to keep Zeno from accomplishing his evil deed are Princess Happy (Mary Beth Benvenuti) and Muffles, her pet penguin (Renee Hamm).

The play is a fantasy 2 for children and adults of all ages. Tickets are available at the door and admission is 25 cents for children and $1 for adults.

'KING' DIRECTOR Don Griffon discusses construction of a castle for the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre production of 'King of Ice Cream Mountain' with Elizabeth Holmes, set design and script manager. The children's fantasy will be presented Friday and Saturday at the little theatre playhouse on Boardman Avenue.

PRJC dean eyes record enrollment

Painters are finishing the trim work, dormitory rooms have been restored and cleaned and coaches, directors and administrators are ready for another school year at Pearl River College in Poplarville.

Pearl River's Wildcat football players will report to campus August 12 with the PRC faculty, String of Pearls, cheerleaders, and flag corp scheduled to return Monday morning, August 20.

J.C. Arban, PRC's head football coach, is expecting more than 89 players for the first squad meeting. The Wildcats, under Arban, and assistants Herbert Morris, David Earl Johnson and Harvey Seligman, will lead the Cats in two-a-day workouts for nearly two weeks before school actually begins.

Dr. Jerry Wilkinson, PRC's band director, said he expects to field nearly 100 persons this coming fall. The wildcat band will be much larger and the addition of more flag corp members, will be impressive.

Eight cheerleaders will represent the Wildcats this coming fall. The group has been practicing this summer and will also come in a week early, according to an Morris, cheerleader sponsor.

PRC's faculty will report to the Student Center at 8 a.m. Monday, August 20 for committee assignments and orientation. A faculty workshop is planned for the next day, Tuesday, August 21. Registration begins Wednesday morning, August 22, according to last name alphabetical listing of sophomore students.

New, transfer and former students will register by alphabetical listing Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning. Classes actually begin Friday, August 24.

Miller Hammill, dean of students, said the resident halls on campus were near capacity and a waiting list would soon be necessary.

Room reservations of $5 is a must for students interested in living on campus.

"We're looking for another year," Dr. Marvin White, PRC's president, said, "It's looking as if we will have another record enrollment."

Beginners band camp set at SSC

St. Stanislaus Band Camp begins Sunday at 1 p.m. and will run through Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.

Rehearsals will begin Monday and Tuesday at 9 a.m. and end at 3:30 p.m. with a break for lunch.

This band camp is for first-year band members, flag corp members and drummers only.

First-year members should attend this session in order to learn special routines for the coming year. The director, the drum major and drum major members will be assisting, according to Davis Williams, band director.

Newcomers slate Aug. 14 meeting

The August meeting of the Gulf Coast Newcomers Club will be conducted Tuesday, August 14 at the home of Vera Reich, 304 Royal St. Gulfport. There will not be a social hour preceding the luncheon. The luncheon will begin promptly at 11 a.m., and members are urged to bring a dish, and swimsuit if they desire to swim.

The guest speaker will be Mrs. DePute, a make-up artist for Fashion 200.

New comers to the Gulf Coast are invited to attend, and may call 832-0678 or 896-4542 for more information.

The 4-H youth development program conducted by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service (MCES) has long been noted for its educational improvement of the state's youth.

However, these 4-H'ers were recognized for the improvements they have made to their communities as they gathered in Jackson Aug. 7-8 for the 4-H Youth Development Community Pride Conference and Recognition Program.

The program offered a combination of educational entertaining activities as well as provides recognition for club accomplishments.

After being welcomed to the capital city by Jackson's Miss Hospitality Lorin Walker, 4-H'ers had the opportunity to learn ways to improve the future community pride programs.

Discussing "War on Ugliness," a current beautification program, was Dr. Bob Chapin, coordinator, Extension Land Use Center.

Dr. Jack Carroll, assistant coordinator, Extension Energy Center, also presented energy action suggestions.

During the two-day program, participants toured the historic city of Jackson, the Old Capitol, State Historical Museum, the Mississippi Museum of Art and the Jackson-Davis Planetarium.

Highlighting the meeting was the annual awards program. Keynote speaker for the evening was S.H. Leach, public affairs area manager, Chevron U.S.A. Inc. "It is our pleasure to cooperate with Chevron U.S.A. in hosting this annual event," said Dr. Charles Sappington, state leader, 4-H Youth Development, MCES.

"Both agencies wish these 4-H'ers continued success in improving their communities and in gaining the experience and learning that come through active involvement."

Health and Safety Tip

SWIMMING SAFETY RULES SAVE LIVES

(Presented as a public service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and this newspaper)

Swimming, one of the most popular of summer sports, can be a healthful, stimulating part of the summer vacation.

On the other hand, swimming can be one of the most dangerous of outdoor pastimes.

The Mississippi State Medical Association reminds that healthful swimming begins with clean, sanitary water.

Water is an easy and quick means of transmission for many disease organisms, and inevitably swimmers will swallow some water. Swim only in approved areas where the water is clean and free for pollution.

Swimming can be dangerous. Drowning can occur at any age.

Inability to swim, inexperience, carelessness, poor judgment or lack of supervision are causes of most water accidents.

Infants and toddlers need constant supervision by adults who themselves practice good water safety rules.

Swimmers must know their limitations. The depth of the water should be checked and hidden rocks and stumps located before diving.

Swimmers should always have someone else along, and preferably swim where a lifeguard is near.

Remember that salt water and surf can be more tiring than swimming a quiet pool or lake.

The swimmer in trouble often can survive if he or she stays calm. Assume a face-up floating position, keeping hands under the water, and move hands and feet slowly.

It is possible to stay afloat for hours with relatively little effort. But thrashing the water in panic will exhaust the swimmer.

Swimmers should be taught to float on their backs. Each member of the family should be coached in the fundamentals of swimming safety, and especially mouth-to-mouth resuscitation procedures.

HAVING A TOOTH PULLED?

Tooth extractions are not new. The Chinese and Greeks recommended them almost 2000 years ago. Today, a patient's visit to a dentist's office for a tooth extraction is a routine procedure. In fact, more than 10 million teeth a year are extracted in the United States.

Consequently, the relief of pain has been made a priority for dentists. In 1900, a patient's visit to a dentist's office for a tooth extraction was a painful experience. Today, a patient's visit is a routine procedure.

For example, the local anesthetic, which is a liquid, is injected into the tooth and the surrounding tissue. This numbs the area and the patient feels no pain.

For the patient's comfort, the dentist will use a special technique. The patient will be lying down and the dentist will be standing over the patient. The patient will be looking at the dentist's face and the dentist will be looking at the patient's face.

The patient will be looking at the dentist's face and the dentist will be looking at the patient's face. The patient will be looking at the dentist's face and the dentist will be looking at the patient's face.

Bay Municipal Schools registration is Aug. 21

The schools of the Bay-Waveland Municipal Separate District will officially open for the 1978-79 school term at 9 a.m. for registration on Tuesday, August 21, Superintendent J.D. McCullough announced this week.

All schools will begin classes Wednesday, August 22, with the school day at Waveland Elementary beginning at 8:15 and ending at 2:45.

North Bay Elementary will begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 3 p.m.

All cafeterias will be in operation. Student lunches grades 1-5 will be 50 cents each; grades 6-12 will be 60 cents each and faculty and staff 75 cents each.

Faculty workshop meetings will be held on Monday, August 20 at 9 a.m. at the following schools: Grades 1-4 at North Bay Elementary and Waveland Elementary Schools; grades 5-9 at Bay Junior High School, and grades 10-12 at Bay Senior High.

A joint meeting of all school personnel will be held Monday, August 20, at 2 p.m. in the High School Library located on Blue Meadow Road.

Elementary students, 14 grades and living inside the city limits of Bay-St. Louis and outside added territory of the school district will register at North Bay Elementary School.

Elementary students grade 1-4 and living in side the city limits of Waveland will register at Waveland Elementary School.

All students 7-9 grades living within the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District will register at Bay Junior High School located on N. Second and Carroll Avenue.

Students 10-12 grades and living within the school district will register at Bay Senior High School on Blue Meadow Road.

McCullough stated that first grade students must be accompanied by their parents and bring their birth certificates proving that they will be six years old as of October 1, 1979.

The Bay-Waveland Separate District embraces an area of approximately 27 square miles and serves a population of approximately 12,000 people.

The student population of the district for the 1978-79 school term was 2,100 and is served by two elementary schools, grades 1-5, one junior high school, grades 6-9, and one high school, grades 10-12. The district is served by a five member board of trustees. It is accredited by the State Accrediting Commission and the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The school district employs 108 full time classroom teachers and administrative staff.

The teacher-pupil ratio is 1:19. The district employs two full time guidance counselors, ten special education instructors, two speech pathologists, one Title I instructional supervisor, and a school nurse.

In addition to those specialists, the district employs three teacher's aides in special education and 18 teacher's aides under Title I to work with students who have difficulty in reading and mathematics.

The high school offers fifty-eight Carnegie units in its curriculum. Seventeen units (16 academic and 1 non-academic) are required for graduation. Approximately 66 percent of the class of 1978-79 are enrolled in college.

The High School, in cooperation with the local junior college, offers vocational-technical training in five areas to those students desiring vocational careers.

The high and junior high schools offer courses for remedial, average and advanced students.

The district operates fourteen school buses and provides transportation for students living one mile or more from the school they attend.

The Bay-Waveland Municipal Separate School District will spend approximately $1.2 million in the average daily attendance for the 1978-79 state and local sources.

All students, 1-10 grade, have the following immunization shots for the 1978-80 school term according to Senate Bill 2650 of the regular Session of the 1978 Legislature: tetanus, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, polio, measles, rubella.

Parents must secure the special school certificates from local departments of health or a private physician. All teachers must have their health cards up dated, McCullough added.

For more information about evening college, weekend college or mini-courses, interested persons should contact the Office of Extended Studies at 327-0282.

Legislators schedule agriculture hearings

Two Mid-South Senators will hold hearings next week in Tupelo and West Memphis to focus on fuel problems facing agriculture and related industry in the region.

Senators Thad Cochran (R-Miss) and David Pryor (D-Ark) will hear testimony Aug. 14 and 15 from agricultural spokesmen and representatives of the processing, shipping, transportation and fuel industries.

Also expected to participate in the Tupelo and West Memphis hearings are officials of the federal Department of Energy and state government dealing with fuel policies.

The Tupelo hearings will be at 1:30 p.m. Aug. 14 at the Lee County Library, and the West Memphis session will be at 9:30 a.m. Aug. 15 in the City Hall Council Meeting Room of that Arkansas city.

Cochran and Pryor are both members of the Senate Agriculture Committee, under whose jurisdiction the Tupelo and West Memphis hearings are being held.

"We plan to listen to the specific needs of the farmers, truckers, processors and distributors," Senator Cochran commented.

"The food and fiber industries are immensely important to the economies of Mississippi and the Mid-South as well as the nation as a whole. Our hearings will help us identify our energy needs and learn how we can better meet them," he added.

Senator Pryor expressed concern that farmers, who earlier this summer encountered difficulties in securing enough diesel fuel to complete planting, might face problems under government allocation programs in meeting their fall harvest needs.

Senator Cochran pointed out that both Mississippi and Arkansas are major producers of crops such as soybeans, rice and cotton, as well as other agricultural interests, and that much of the farm products are shipped nationwide and around the world via trucks, rail, waterways and through the Gulf Coast ports.

The National Life and Accident Insurance Company is the nation's fifth largest combination life insurance firm with $16.2 billion of life insurance in force and assets of $3 billion.

Legislator seeking state veteran home

Veterans organizations in Mississippi are implementing plans to secure passage of legislation during the 1980 session of the Mississippi Legislature to establish a State Veterans Home in Mississippi, according to Congressman G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery.

A steering committee has been formed to promote the effort and inform the legislators and public of the need for this facility in the state.

The group, named the Mississippi Veterans Home Committee, is composed of representatives of the Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, Veterans of WWI, State Veterans Affairs Board, and Former Prisoners of War.

In a recent meeting in Meridian, Montgomery endorsed the project and pledged his support.

As a ranking member of the Veterans Affairs Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives, Montgomery said he would work toward providing federal funds to defray a portion of the cost when the state legislation is enacted.

Montgomery noted that the Veterans Administration would defray 65 percent of the cost of new construction or the renovation of an existing facility.

He also said that 50 percent of the cost of daily care at either a domiciliary home or extended care facility would be funded by the VA within certain guidelines.

Charles J. Dean, civil defense director in Lauderdale County, is chairman of the new committee. Dean says that 50 percent of the direct cost of a veteran's care would come from the veteran which would hold the state contribution to a minimum. Dean also said that 35 states now operate veterans homes including Arkansas, Georgia and Louisiana. Many states have operated domiciliary and nursing homes for their veterans for more than a century.

Arkansas opened a home earlier this year and has a veterans population comparable to that of Mississippi. Dean said that the shortage of nursing home beds in Mississippi available to veterans is critical with long waiting lists. Many veterans are having to be placed in nursing homes in other states which is a hardship on the veteran and his family.

Other members of the new committee are Mark Cleary, national service officer, and Gaddis "Red" Williams, of the DAV; Lowell Gibson, department commander, and Horace Cupit, department quartermaster, of the VFW; Gayle Gordon, department commander, and David H. Blakeney, department adjutant, American Legion, and Earl Webb and J.I. Hurst, the Veterans of World War I.

With the current emphasis on fuel and energy conservation, it's important to know that carpet is one of the best thermal insulators you can put in your home.
The air spaces or pockets between the carpet's pile fibers hold warm air in a room, and conversely when the room is being cooled by air conditioning these same air spaces trap the cool air and act to insulate the room from exterior heat.
Psychologically, the aesthetics of color and texture incorporated in a carpet can give a room a feeling of warmth or coolness according to your needs and desires.
Stop in and let us show you how living or working in a nicely carpeted environment can be more comfortable, more healthful and more enjoyable.

Gulfport's 'Salute to Military' promises musical highlights

Music of all types will highlight the Second Annual Salute to the Military, sponsored by the Gulfport Area Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday, October 2, 1978.

Patriotic and march music will be provided by the Air Force Band of the Gulf Coast, stationed at Keeler Air Force Base. This group of talented musicians has performed for numerous audiences across the southeastern United States.

Coast residents particularly are familiar with their ready participation in community events. The band will be under the direction of Lieutenant Gary Sapp.

In addition to the Air Force Band of the Gulf Coast, this event will feature the Air Force's "Strolling Strings" from Washington, D.C.

The "Strolling Strings" were organized in 1964 and were the first to present their type of entraining music to American audiences.

The members of the organization are graduates of leading universities and music conservatories.

Strolling informally among the tables, the Strolling Strings bring the intimate quality of their music much closer to each listener than could be possible in any other performance situation.

Drawing from a repertoire of diversified musical styles, the Strolling Strings continually amaze with their thrilling precision, even though the individual musicians are situated throughout the room.

The Strolling Strings were chosen to provide entertainment for the official White House State Dinner welcoming home the POW's from Vietnam in 1975, and in 1980 flew to Los Angeles to participate in the Presidential dinner honoring the crew of Apollo 11.

Additionally, Life Magazine featured a two page picture of the Strings performing at President Kennedy's dinner for American Nobel Prize winners at the White House. In addition to numerous appearances in Washington, D.C., and throughout America, the Strolling Strings have been acclaimed in Spain, Germany, England, Iceland, Canada, Guam, Okinawa and Thailand.

They have the distinction of having performed for Presidents Ford, Nixon, Johnson, Kennedy and Eisenhower, and are in constant demand for the White House's numerous state and social functions.

The honored guest and featured speaker for this event will be the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General David C. Jones, USAF. Site for this event will be the Convention Center of the Coast Coliseum Complex. Ticket information may be obtained from the Gulfport Area Chamber of Commerce.

THE HYDRAULIC RAM

The high cost of energy has blunted the keen edge of typical American sophistication. Recent years have seen a cyclical move back toward more basic ways of doing things.

Many rural people over the years have clung to certain basics that worked quite well despite the mainstream of folks bent on doing things the very latest way.

A few years ago this writer sat down in the cool shade beside a small manmade waterfall on the Hollis Baton place in Stone county to watch water cascade from a generously-flowing, spring-fed, woodland pond.

The water was directed by wooden troughs to the blades of a water wheel and squeaked rhythmically as it slowly turned and started the sparkling clean water through a pipe up the hill to the Baton home. It was their sole water supply and a good one.

That scene flashed through my mind on the day recently when I picked up the phone to talk to a man in southwest Mississippi who asked if I'd do one of my AG AFFAIRS columns on hydraulic or water rams. I said yes and this is it.

Hydraulic rams were invented in the 18th century to move running water from its source uphill a short distance — utilizing the power of falling water to force a small portion of the water the height desired above the source. No electric or fuel powered pumps are involved and the water ram only has two working parts. And in the day-of-high-maintenance costs, the ram is unique in that the only maintenance needed is to keep leaves and trash cleaned away from the strainer on the intake, and to replace the check and non-return or delivery valve rubbers if they get worn.

Hydraulic rams were mainly in the out-back areas where power and fuel were unavailable or impractical. In the old days could be ordered through such sources as the Sears & Roebuck mail order catalog.

Any working fall from 18 inches to 100 feet can be used to work a ram, but the greater the fall the less the ram will cost and the less driver water is required.

FBI names terrorist to 10 most wanted list

John William Sherman, a revolutionary terrorist who is wanted as an escaped Federal prisoner, has been named to the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" list.

Sherman escaped from prison in Lompoc, California, on April 24, 1978, while serving a 30-year sentence for bank robbery and escape.

While incarcerated at Lompoc, Sherman was taken to downtown Lompoc for treatment by an ophthalmologist.

During this visit Sherman obtained a gun from the restroom which allegedly had been left there by his wife a few hours earlier and made good his escape, with his wife driving the getaway car.

He was a member of the George Jackson Brigade, a revolutionary terrorist organization which claimed credit for a number of bombings and bank robberies on the West Coast of the United States in the 1970's.

Sherman is allegedly responsible for 14 of these bank robberies and 11 bombings.

County Agent's Notes

By John W. Smith

SILAGE HARVESTING AND STORAGE

The stage of maturity silage is harvested affects the quality of the silage. Silage harvested too early will not preserve properly and will have a considerable amount of "mud" from the silo. If harvested too late, the silage will not pack properly and will spoil.

Corn and sorghum silage should be harvested when grain moisture is about 35 percent and whole plant moisture is between 60 and 70 percent.

On corn, this is when the corn is fully dent and the grains are still soft but there is no "milk". Also, the chuk has begun to brown slightly.

For sorghum, the seed in the lower part of the head are in the hard dough stage. The seed have lost all signs of green coloring and are brown, tan, white or whatever color they are at maturity.

There is no milk in any of the grains. The seed in the lower part of the head are the last to mature, so be sure to check this area to determine maturity.

Storage is also important for good quality silage. Bunker and pit silos should be covered with plastic or other material to prevent water entry and leaching of nutrients.

Cover the plastic with old tires or a thin layer of sawdust or straw to prevent damage and blowing off during high winds.

CONTROL

SOYBEAN WEEDS: Controlling weeds in soybean fields is a difficult task. Cultivation can be done in the row middles but grass in the drill requires chemical control.

If soybeans are eight inches tall or larger, a directed spray of Paraquat can take out three- or four-inch grass in the drill.

If johnsongrass is too large for cultivation or directed herbicide in a recirculating sprayer can be effective. For best control, the johnsongrass should be actively growing and in the "boot" or seedhead stage.

Be sure to keep Roundup of soybean foliage because it may injure or kill the plants.

STORE GARDEN SEED CORRECTLY

If you plan to save your leftover garden seed for next year, make sure you store them correctly. Seed stored improperly will produce weak plants and may not germinate at all.

To keep leftover seed strong and viable, store them in an airtight container. Don't store in a cloth or paper container because the seed may die before planting time next year.

Place the airtight container in a refrigerator, freezer or in an air-conditioned room where the temperature stays 70 degrees F or cooler.

Seed stored in this manner will not have insect problems, but seed stored at room temperature may become infested. To prevent this, place a few moth balls in the container with the seed.

FERTILIZE SUMMER GRASSES

Lack of fertilizer often the limiting factor that reduces production of summer pastures.

grasses may remain in pastures at low levels of fertility, but they need commercial fertilizer for good plant growth.

If you don't have soil test information available and haven't fertilized the grass this year, apply 13-13-13 fertilizer at the rate of 500 pounds per acre. You will need to apply more fertilizer later for extended fall production.

CONTROL GARDEN WEEDS

One of the best ways to keep weeds out of your garden next year is to keep it clean and productive the rest of the summer and this fall.

Weeds left to grow uncontrolled still have time to produce overwintering seed that will infest next year's vegetables. You can prevent this by cleaning up your garden in late summer and fall.

Keep your garden clean and productive this year, and you will hold down weed problems in next year's garden.

State immunization program expanded

The immunization program for Mississippi's school children has been expanded this year, according to State Superintendent of Education Dr. Charles Holladay. Holladay said this program will include students entering kindergarten, first grade, tenth grade, and any who did not attend school in the state last year.

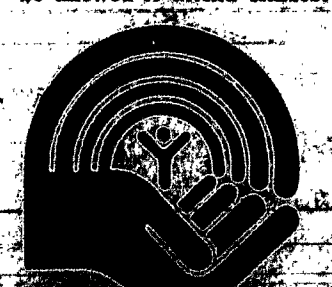

Holladay said these students must show the blue Certificate of Compliance before they will be allowed to attend classes.

The program was first implemented during the 1978-79 school year following passage by the Legislature. At that time, it required students in grades one through eight to be immunized before school began.

State Health Officer Dr. Alton Cobb said immunization may be obtained from a private physician or the county health department.

Youthful spirit, activities fend off effects of old age

As I think back over my life of 89 years, experiences out of my past flood my mind. As memories parade in review, I realize that the old saying, "we are too early old, and too late smart" is true.

Counting the years is not an accurate way of determining one's age. I know a man 87 years old who is in better condition than another man I know who is only 68.

In my opinion it is not so much a matter of years as of attitudes, interests and activities.

Henry Ford said "Anyone who stops learning and stops work is old whether at 30 or at 80. Anyone who keeps learning and working stays young at any age. The greatest thing in the world is to keep your mind young."

President Garfield said: "If wrinkles must be written upon our brows, let them not be written upon the heart. The spirit should not grow old at any age."

Everything about growing old is not bad. There are compensations I've found as I've grown older. I've grown more calm, more untroubled, more tolerant.

I have learned to take things as they come without getting too agitated or stirred up. As someone has said, "I've seen many troubles and disappointments, but fortunately, most of them never happened."

I often have people ask me my age. When I say 89, many look at me as if to say, "89 and walking around, and going to your work every day?"

A woman I know met me on the street recently and asked my age. When I told her 89, she was surprised saying, "You certainly do walk well. I saw you going down the street a few minutes ago stepping along like a young man."

"Well," I said, "I ought to walk well, my mother told me I learned to walk at one-year-old, they say practice makes perfect, and I've been practicing daily for 89 years."

I know that I must grow old but I want to be sure to keep my spirit young. I agree with Henry Amiel who wrote many years ago: "To know how to grow old is the masterpiece of wisdom and one of the most difficult chapters in the art of living."

Mortimer Collins wrote in 1858: "Oh, why should our age be revealing?"

Leave that to the registry books.

A man's as old as he's feeling.

A woman as old as she looks.

I find this short verse by J. R. Lowell fits my case:

"As my life runs on, the roads grow strange.

With faces new and near the end,

The mile stones into head stones change,

Neath every one a friend."

Very few are living today I knew in my younger years. I like this little verse George W. Johnson wrote in his old age:

"And, now we are aged and gray, Maggie,

The trials of life nearly done,

Let us sing of the days that are gone, Maggie,

When you and I were young."

Other quotations found in my file are: "Age is a crown of glory when it is adorned with righteousness;" "Old age takes from the man of intellect no qualities except those that are useless to wisdom;" "I love everything that's old, old friends, old time manners, old books, old music;" "When the waitress puts the dinner on the table the old men look at the food, the young men at the waitress;" "He who is idle in his youth will have to work in his old age;" and "It is never too late to do worthwhile things."

I believe that the general thinking of the present time that a man should retire age 60 to 65 and do nothing thereafter is all wrong.

To retire is alright if some new interesting or productive work is undertaken. To rest, to do nothing, is to rust.

A man must keep active if he is to keep in good health both mentally and physically.

This principle applies to both people and things. If a good automobile is not used for a few weeks or months, it deteriorates and has to be reconditioned before it can be used again.

I once found a good pocket knife that had lain idle for over a year. The keen edge had rusted and I had to sharpen it.

A successful athlete has to train daily to be at his best. If a man wants to live long in good health, he must keep active.

Henry W. Longfellow, one of America's greatest authors wrote "Nothing is too late 'til the tired heart shall cease to beat."

Some of the great accomplishments in the history of the world were performed by men up in years.

Simonides bore off the prize for verse from his co-peers at over 80; Sophocles wrote his greatest work when over 80 and other great writers reached the zenith of their intellectual power when they were old men, some of them as old as 90.

For instance, the great painting, Mona Lisa, was painted by Leonardo in his old age. The intellectual and artistic powers in many men who became famous developed to their full power in their old age, not by men who retired but by men who kept working and developing.

Many changed occupations but they kept working and learning.

I have always liked to talk to old people, people who have had long experience, and who have learned much as they have travelled life's highway.

I always have a feeling of being better and having profited from talking to old people and small children. From the old you get wisdom and sound judgment, from the children pleasant surprises.

Census report shows sharp state retail trade increase

Data from a 1977 Census of Retail Trade shows Mississippi's 21,469 retail stores had sales totaling $6.2 billion, an increase of 56.8 percent over sales reported in 1972 when the last such census was taken, according to the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce.

Among the kinds of business for which data are presented for the State, the percentage change in sales ranged from an increase of 119.6 percent for sporting goods stores; and bicycle shops to an increase of 3.4 percent for household appliance stores.

Measured in dollar volume of sales, grocery stores were the largest retailers in the State with 1977 sales of $1.5 billion, followed by new car dealers with $1.2 billion, and department stores with $459 million. These three kinds of business accounted for 50.9 percent of the State's total sales by retailers.

The 1977 payroll of retail stores in the State amounted to $624 million, up 62.9 percent from 1972. Sporting goods stores and bicycle shops showed the largest increase in payroll, with an increase of 167.4 percent.

There were 103,427 paid employees (full and part-time) engaged in retail trade in the State as of mid-March 1977.

Eating places were the largest employers with 21,469 employees, followed by grocery stores with 17,584 employees, and department stores with 9,651 employees. Hinds County led the counties in the State, accounting for 15.1 percent of total sales by retailers.

Jackson had the largest sales among the cities in the State, accounting for 13.8 percent. The statistics in this release come from the Mississippi Geographic Area Statistics report, RC77-A-25, 1977 Census of Retail Trade.

The complete report, to be issued shortly in microfiche and paperback versions, will present data on 10 major kind-of-business groups for all counties and for incorporated cities of 2,500 inhabitants or more in the State.

More detailed standard metropolitan statistical areas (SMSA's), and counties and cities with 500 establishments or more.

The amount of kind-of-business detail will vary according to the number of establishments in an area.

(The geographic area reports will be issued for each State, the District of Columbia, and the United States.)

Announcements containing descriptions and publication dates of the various publications in the 1977 Census of Retail Trade, and an order form for purchasing them, can be obtained from the Subscriber Services Section (Publications), Bureau of the Census, Washington, D.C. 20233.

WHO'S WHO AGAIN—Miss GeAnna Dee Jones '17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude B. Jones of Bay St. Louis, was recently cited for her second consecutive year as a member of the American High School Students. Only 5 percent of high school juniors and seniors in the United States are chosen for this honor.

Jones is a graduate of Piquette Memorial High School.

She plans to attend Pearl River Junior College before entering the school of Pharmacy at the University of Mississippi, Oxford.

Benvenuti receives

MUW grant

Mary Beth Benvenuti of Bay St. Louis has been awarded an academic grant to attend Mississippi University for Women for the 1979-80 school year.

Miss Benvenuti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Benvenuti, 114 Felicite St., is a graduate of Bay St. Louis High School. She will enter "The 99" this fall.

M. B. W. is continuing its efforts to bring top achievers to the university, explained James B. Ables Jr., director of admissions.

The incoming freshman class is expected to have more than 750 National Merit finalists, semifinalists and commended students as well as a talented group of salutatorians and other high achievers. In addition to a large number of outstanding athletes, musicians and poets, winners in continued. Founded in 1861, the W is the nation's first and now its only state-supported university. In many offices, especially those with very small staffs, it is very difficult to find the time to do the work

FmHA slashes loan processing with 'administrative periods'

In an effort to shorten the time between loan applications and final action, the Farmers Home Administration has approved a plan whereby FmHA county offices will set aside "administrative periods" to work on processing loans. In Mississippi, the administrative time is to be from 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. each day.

FmHA Administrator Gordon Cavanaugh said, "As the demand for Farmers Home programs continues to increase, time becomes an even more precious commodity. In many offices, especially those with very small staffs, it is very difficult to find the time to do the work needed to move loan applications on to final approval. By officially setting aside a few hours a week to work on the loans, it is hoped that delays experienced by some borrowers can be reduced."

Mississippi FmHA State Director Mark Hazard emphasized that someone in the FmHA office will be on hand to meet the public and respond to telephone calls during "administrative periods" but that within reason, loan officers should be free to process loans.

Mark Hazard said the plan will be put into effect in all County Offices, effective July 1, 1979. "I think the 'Administrative period' will greatly improve our efficiency and prove to be of benefit to our borrowers," Hazard said.

Extension weed specialist says:

Soybean field weed cleanup takes work

FARM NEWS AND VIEWS
By MIKE WINDHAM
Extension Service

The extremely wet spring has been on more farmers' minds than has any other subject this growing season. First, the wet weather cost farmers money. In the lower Delta areas, many had already fertilized and planted early cotton when the flood waters backed up in the tributaries of the Mississippi River. Heavy rains washed in-corporated chemicals and seeds right out of the ground. The floods and rains meant producers had to replant or switch from cotton to soybeans and then reapply chemicals for weed control. Extension Weed Science Specialist Dr. Wayne Houston says he's seeing heavy infestations of major cotton weeds caused by the unfavorable weather in April and May.

Most of the weed problems are attributed directly to the wetness which kept producers from getting into their fields with post-directed sprays. "With this recent wet spell, we couldn't get into the fields and finish cleaning them up. Some fields will have to be hoed out because the weeds simply got too big," he explains.

Soybean producers have similar problems. The rains and floodwaters caused many fields to be planted in the last two weeks of June. "So," Dr. Houston says,

"We're looking at a real clean-up program for many of these fields." He warns that cocklebur and morningglory plants are beginning to be real problems in the bean fields. Sicklepod is becoming more and more visible across the state, too. All of these are in addition to the annual johnsongrass problems.

Pigweed is also troublesome, mainly because of poor incorporation of herbicides earlier this year. But Houston says the soybean weed problems still aren't as intense as the weed problems cotton producers face. Since most cotton is in a "lay-by" situation and it's already late season, most of the big weed problems should be under control, he adds. He recommends a "Lorox" lay-by-type program to give a good burndown of late weed problems.

The major pieces of equipment farmers are using to control tall weeds, according to Houston, are "rope-wick applicators" and recirculating sprayers.

Soybean producers who use narrow-row or broadcast planting techniques have to rely on herbicides for weed control more so than conventional-row producers.

This means weed control has to be well planned for this type of soybean production to be profitable.

Houston says even though cocklebur was once considered the toughest weed problem for soybean producers, chemicals like Basagran, Dynap, Dinitro and a number of other treatments have made it so there's not much excuse to lose a field to cocklebur anymore.

A tremendous number of alternatives are available for weed control now. "Some of the other weeds still cause problems," he adds.

In row beans, there are a number of methods, such as direct sprays, cultivation, etc. Two of the biggest weed problems in narrow-row and drill beans are sicklepod and morningglory.

"We really don't have much to offer farmers in the way of sicklepod control in narrow-row or drill beans," the Extension agronomist admits. "But we still have many tools to help producers in conventional-row soybean production get their fields cleaned up. It's just a matter of getting into the fields and doing the work."

GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE Richard Barrett, center, is welcomed to Hancock County by Bradley Peterson, second from left, and well-wishers during his recent visit to Nacalce Crossing. Barrett, 34-year-old Jackson Democrat, calls for the Mississippi Gulf Coast to be the "Red Carpet Riviera of the world; the super-port of the future." He said he would demand that the waters of the Gulf be cleaned up through combined federal, state and private sources, "so our people can swim and our tourist trade can flourish." He said he wanted the coast to be "a bright jewel of Mississippi's crown."

Pine beetle discovered in epidemic proportions

The Mississippi Forestry Commission's annual aerial survey of the state to detect forest insect-disease problems has revealed that the Southern Pine Beetle has built its numbers back up to epidemic or near-epidemic levels in 10 East Central and South Central District counties, according to a report from Dr. Richard Collins, Director of the Commission's Insect-Disease Control Department. Collins said that Winston, Noxubee, Leake, Neshoba, Kemper, Scott, Newton, Lauderdale, Rankin and Clarke counties, all had enough infested spots discovered on initial 10-mile interval flights to warrant survey on two mile intervals followed by more intensive ground checking.

Landowners are being notified of the insect problem as spots are verified through site visits by Forestry Commission personnel.

Winston and Noxubee have already been re-flown at the closer spacing and, as Collins put it: "It doesn't look good at all. This outbreak may rival the bad ones we had in Southwest Mississippi in the 1950's and 60's!"

Winston County had 88 infested spots averaging about 10 acres each, he said. "And Winston is one of the least infested counties!" exclaims survey pilot Dwight Munday.

Bad flying weather was hampering completion of the annual survey flights through late July.

The best thing for affected timberland landowners to do is to get the beetle infested trees salvaged as quickly as possible, according to Collins.

Spots of only a few infested trees in isolated areas where an economical salvage operation isn't feasible should be treated by felling the trees and leaving them in the woods.

Landowners should contact the Area Forester for aids in choosing trees to be removed or felled and left to the elements. The Area Forester can also help landowners find buyers for the infested trees.

Collins said it was not clear as to why the sudden return of the dreaded Dendroctonus beetles in such heavy numbers. He speculated that the very dry weather late Fall might have put pines under extra stress and invited the destructive insects to attach in ever-increasing numbers this year.

MSU's Maroon Band includes Pass lass

Jane Scholzen of Pass Christian is among 30 freshmen and transfer students selected for membership in the 1979 Famous Maroon Band at Mississippi State University, according to an announcement by James Hejl, director of bands.

Jane, daughter of Mrs. Joann Livingston, is a graduate of Our Lady's Academy, and was active in numerous band activities. The 1979 season marks the 79th year of existence for the Famous Maroon Band, making it one of the South's oldest. Other instrumental music organizations at MSU include the Symphonic Band, Concert Band, Stage Bands A and B, the Clairnet Choir and the Brass Quintet.

Membership in the Famous Maroon Band is by audition, with 91 percent of the 1979 edition coming from Mississippi high school band programs. Other states represented include Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, New York, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

This year's 200 piece Maroon Band will perform at all home football games in Starkville and Jackson, and will travel to the Tennessee, Alabama and Louisiana State games. In the spring, the Symphonic Band and Stage Band A will tour throughout the state and perform at a number of other concerts and campus appearances.
